Vision

To help discover, nurture, project, reward, and celebrate African talents.

To aid African talents occupy their rightful position in the global music space.

Mission

Build The Headies to become the number one award show and music festival of African origin in the world.

Core Value

To remain a credible source of analysing, appreciating and rewarding black music creatives across the world.

ABOUT THE HEADIES

The Headies was created to reward artistic ingenuity and hard work in Africa and across the world.

Each edition since its inception in 2006 has been spectacular with memorable moments engraved in the tablet of history. In addition to celebrating and rewarding music excellence in the year in review, the Headies is also committed to delivering breathtaking and unforgettable musical performances draped with stagecraft and showmanship.

The Headies has indeed contributed to the growth and development of Nigerian and African music industry by providing recognition, exposure, and opportunities for artists and industry professionals alike.

Long before making its way to the music capital of the world, The Headies dominated the continent as one of the most important annual music events.

Millions across Africa look forward to the magic and the conversations around the awards.

It celebrates the achievements, talent, and diversity of Afrobeats superstars while promoting emerging artists and projecting them to limelight. The Headies Awards continue to play a vital role in shaping the African music landscape and showcasing the continent's vibrant and thriving music culture to the world.

The lineup of superstars celebrated at The Headies stage includes Burna Boy, Tems, Wizkid, Davido, Tiwa Savage, Yemi Alade, Ed Sheeran, Diddy, Angélique Kidjo, Akon, Wyclef Jean, Youssou N'dour and many more.

AYO ANIMASHAUN
Executive Producer, The Headies

The Headies was born out of necessity. There was a need for it and we were not surprised that it was much accepted.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY & IMPACT

Beyond its role in acknowledging deserving artists, The Headies demonstrates a commitment to societal well-being through its annual corporate social responsibility initiatives. Notable among these was the 2009 Headies nominees' party held in Ajibogun Village, Ogun State, where the music industry not only celebrated but also contributed to the community by installing a borehole system, providing access to clean water.

In 2011, The Headies addressed the pressing issue of sexual violence against women through the "Stop The Violence (Rape)" campaign, involving female African acts to raise awareness and sensitize the public.

In 2012, the Headies embarked on a new venture, the "Help The Children" campaign.

Ayo Animashaun, Executive Producer, highlighted the critical role capable but less privileged children could play in shaping a prosperous society.

This campaign focuses on addressing social factors endangering children, such as inadequate food supplies, unclean water, and diseases like malaria.

The initiative involved celebrities from the music industry donating clothes and materials to support vulnerable children, with a specific focus on street kids in communities like the Dustbin Estate in Ajegunle and the Makoko riverine community in Yaba, Lagos.

The Headies aims to make a meaningful impact on these children's lives, emphasizing the importance of securing a future free from scars for the younger generation. Hundreds of young people have benefited from The Headies social impact.

Kizz Daniel

The Headies is prestigious and it's a wonderful event for the time of the year where every aspect of the industry comes together to celebrate greatness and hard work.

Wizkid

A Big shoutout to The Headies for doing amazing things for the music Industry.

HISTORY OF THE HEADIES PLAQUE

It took four years to finally visualize and conceptualise what would serve as a symbol of success and victory in a largely difficult music industry.

Finally, The Headies founder Ayo Animashaun created an image to represent the triumph in a largely difficult industry.

The Plaque fondly called Heady depicts the head of a talented artiste shouting...

Produced in the United Kingdom, Heady is a 21 Carat pure gold plated plaque with Copper base. It is a mixture of resin, copper, steel, marble and gold.

THE HEADIES ACADEMY

The Headies Academy plays a crucial role in overseeing the processes of the annual award ceremony, aiming to recognize and honor the artistic talent of African musicians across various music categories. Committed to fairness and transparency, the Academy comprises diverse music industry stakeholders, including record label executives, DJs, producers, video directors, A&R executives, artiste managers, media personalities, music critics, journalists, data analysts, music heads, and enthusiasts.

1

HOW WINNERS EMERGE

Eligibility & Year in Review:

The eligibility and year-in-review process is a key aspect, with the "Call For Entry" phase announcing the timeline for considering music materials for the Award edition. Only songs released within a specified period (usually 12 months) are eligible for nominations. The Academy's research team, along with artists, management companies, and record labels, contributes to the selection of works for consideration.

2

Award Categories:

The award categories have expanded from twenty-four to thirty-eight over the years, adapting to changes in music genres, regions, industry sectors, and evolving sounds. Notable updates include the eligibility of EPs for nominations, provided they have more than 5 tracks or 18 minutes of playtime within the review year.

3

Nominee And Recipient Eligibility:

Nominee and recipient eligibility rules vary across categories, such as the Best Collaboration of the Year, where all credited artists, including featured artists, are eligible. Album eligibility criteria have also evolved, allowing EPs with specific criteria to be nominated.

4

Award Recipient: In-House Rules

In-house rules dictate that nominees must inform organizers in advance if they are unable to attend the Awards event, securing pre-recorded acceptance speeches if they win. The organizers may award the nominee with the second-highest votes if the winner is absent, except in cases with pre-recorded speeches. Disqualification may occur if nominees fail to meet requirements related to availability and conduct.

5

Voting Technicalities:

Voting categories include both voting and non-voting categories. The general public can vote through the website or SMS for the former, while only Academy members can vote for the latter. The voting platforms have varying weights: SMS – 40%, Online Voting – 30%, and Academy Members – 30%. To uphold the integrity of the process, a reputable audit firm is engaged to verify the votes, ensuring a fair and transparent outcome.

6

In summary, the Headies Academy meticulously manages the award processes, ensuring fairness, transparency, and adaptability to the dynamic music landscape while engaging in certified verification of votes for credibility.

HEADIES MIC CHECK

DISCOVERING THE NEXT GENERATION OF SUPERSTARS

Tagged “Africa’s 360 Talent Discovery Platform” – The Headies Mic Check gives grassroots talents an opportunity to showcase their gifts and musical prowess in a rigorous competition that will give birth to Nigeria’s next musical export. The Headies Mic Check is in its third season and has given over 100,000 dollars worth of prizes to previous winners.

The competition begins online with participants sending in their audition clips. The Headies Mic Check has received over 1 million entries since its inception with each entry reviewed and the best selected for the physical auditions. The Headies Mic Check intends to continue meeting its goal of rewarding grassroots talents as it gears up for a new season.

UNITED STATES CONSUL GENERAL'S RECEPTION IN HONOR OF THE HEADIES

The US government represented by their consulate in Nigeria is probably The Headies' biggest partner since we moved to Atlanta. The United States Consul General's reception in honor of The Headies is an annual event dedicated to celebrating the United States continuous partnership with Africa's Global Awards for Afrobeats Music and the Nigerian music industry at large.

The event which brings together key stakeholders and music executives as a part of the build up to the Headies grand event.

MI ABAGA

I remember coming to Lagos for the Headies, I had no idea I was going to win, and then I won. I remember as I was walking in, all the press ignored me, nobody really knew my name, but as soon as I held that award I felt like my career changed, and everything from then on just went up.

WIZKID

The Headies experience is always electrifying, I always look forward to seeing my friends and people win. The best way to win awards is to work hard and believe in your craft. I remember I got a car at the Headies when I won the Next Rated. Big shout out to Mr Ayo Animashaun for doing something amazing for the music industry.

“The HEADIES EXPERIENCE”

PHYNO

The Headies brings so many different black cultures under one roof with an incredible lineup of performances and whole lots of Afrobeats

ADESEUN OYENEYE
Co-Executive Producer, The Headies

Indeed, our lives have come as Africans and we are happy to be part of this history. The whole essence of Headies is to place Africa, that crude of ours, which is entertainment and music in the global space.

OMAWUMI

My Best Headies experience was when I was nominated in the next rated category and won. Then in 2012 I hosted the award with MI and it was fulfilling. The Next Rated validated my craft

The 16th Headies which held at the Cobb Energy Center was a grand success showcasing the strength and growth of Afrobeats across the globe soil with some of the industry's superstars and music executives in attendance.

Terrence J

(Co-host of the 16th Headies)

Doing it big for the 16 years and tonight will be the biggest night

D'BANJ

This is what we need. This is the right encouragement the industry needs. First of all, it shows how big the industry has become and the vision that we all have. It makes people work harder and know that there is a reward at the end, so I am excited

REMA

It's important to support our institutions. By institutions, I mean the bodies that support us to achieve major success. This is our chance to protect what we have.
